

Contact phone: 206-898-9453 (not for publication)

They're the Greatest Heroes of the 19th Century...
Though Not Our 19th Century!
BRASS: The Audio Series

In an 1885 very different from the one in our history books, the Family Brass is the most celebrated clan in the British Empire. Each is a certifiable genius; Lord Brass an inventor, Lady Brass a Sherlock Holmes-level detective, their daughter Gwendolyn a con artist and mistress of disguise, and their son Cyril a martial artist savant. But when they return to their beloved London after years abroad, they find themselves at war with a criminal syndicate run by the mysterious Crime Minister. An action-filled mystery full of witty banter and unlikely romances, BRASS is a Victorian genre-busting series that redefines what Steampunk can be.

BRASS is a multiplatform adventure serial available as an audio drama, a series of live shows, and a trio of short films. The audio drama version was originally streamed to over 50 commercial stations in the US and Canada courtesy of Seattle's Imagination Theater, and is available as a podcast through iTunes and other platforms.

Developed over three years and featuring a company of over 50 actors, crew and writers, BRASS features a collection of veteran Seattle and Northwest-based artists with some significant experience in stage and independent film, including Ron Richardson (Lord Brass), Kate Kraay* (Lady Brass), Katherine Grant-Suttie* (Gwendolyn Brass), Jeremy Adams (Cyril Brass), Terry Edward Moore* (The Crime Minister), Tadd Morgan (Oscar Wilde and many others), Phillip Keiman* (Ponder Wright), Matt Middleton (Lord Whitestone), Margaret Bicknell (Mrs. Drake), Nancy Frye (M. Tressano) and Larry Albert* (PC Edwards and many others). (*Member of SAG/AFTRA.) It's written and directed by John Longenbaugh, author of over a dozen full length plays, including Arcana, Scotch and Donuts, and Sherlock Holmes and the Case of the Christmas Carol, which has had over 50 productions across the country and in Canada and England.

Where can I learn more?

For an introduction to BRASS, go here: <http://battlegroundproductions.org/projects/brass/>

To listen to the podcast, start here:
<http://battlegroundproductions.org/category/podcast/page/3/>

To watch our BRASS short films, go here:
<http://battlegroundproductions.org/projects/brass-film/>